

ART ADVOCACY

“Visibly Invisible” is an art exhibition that ran from August 29, 2014 – March 1, 2015 in a major Los Angeles Museum. This exhibition reflects Jamaican born Yrneh Gabon Brown’s personal journey and awakening while researching and documenting the devastating effects of prejudice, ignorance and / or violence inflicted upon people affected with albinism in Tanzania, Jamaica and to a lesser degree, the United States of America.
